BARON RICHTOFEN'S LETTER

On the causes of the backward state and growing. decadence of the northern, as compared with the central and southern, preminces of China If we now consider the entire country desribed in this letter, together with all the regions north and morthwest of it, in their ormal state, that is, in that bandition in which they are after a series of ordinary crops, we find that they contribute in a mere nominal degree to the exports from China to foreign countries, and, as the range of those pro-ductions too, which they supply to the central and southern provinces of China is small, it is only a natural consequence, that they occupy a low position as consumers of foreign imports. These circumstances are partly due to the beence, in those previnces, of the staples of foreign exports. But this is not the sole cause. The traveller has occasion, at every step, to observe the contrast of the present poverty and incriness of the rahabitanta with the signs of a previously be ter condition. The large cities, even the villages, the temples, the remnants of magnificent public structures, as well as the history of China, give widence that the northern provinces bave been in a more rosperate stule. No more appropriate intance can be cited - Chan the city of Peking itself, which abounds in the signs of former magnificence, and is now the theatre of growing uin and decay. I will not bere consider those nternal causes of this change of conditions, which are connected with the forms of religion and government, but beg your indulgence for some concluding remarks on those material causes which offer themselves to the sonatunt observation of the traveller. The first owner is the deterioration of elimate, which is probably the consequence of for Franco at the above port, on the occasion the extermination of the forests. Throughout the wholecountry, from Hankow to Peking, all mountains and hills are destitute of tree and abrubs, and offer a most desclate aspect The exceptions are the groven of trees at the villages where many hillsides are planted with oak trees. proof that it had formorly been otherwise. Where the river reaches the valley, the over the surface of fartile alluvial soil, rendering extensive regions unfit for agriculture. Instances of these destructions are numerous in Shansi, and on the borders of the great plain. If it were not for the loess, northern China would already be a desert, with some fertile valleys enclosed. Even this beneficial formation, which is the garde the first question, there are certain causes principal seat of agriculture, and more than of the retrogression, such as those dependent other kinds of soil capable of storing up moisture, is undergoing a rapid destruction. be means of intercommunication. Finally, the deviatations by rebellion must be reckoned among the causes which have materially affected the prosperity of the porthern provinces, for, although they have so tually not suffered more, and perhaps less, than the southern provinces, they do not recover as ensily as those. Means of improving the condition of the Northern Provinces. After having thus examined into the causes of the decadence of the northern provinces, we may wask : can this course of retrogression be obcoked, and a movement in the direction of material progress be created in this place? and have foreign nations a practical interest in promoting such a change? The latter question must be emphatically affirmed, as the extension of foreign commerce to any region is dependent. in a great measure, upon the state of muterial prosperity of the people inhabiting it. As reupon the climate, which paunot be remedied others are connected with f rue of religion and Another cause is the extremely bud state of government, and are not within the scope of these communications; but there are still others, vidently never been in a good condition, yet to which there are effectual remedies. RIFLES, FIXED AMMUNITION,

Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle bitherto attained. The typo-graphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a dearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a re-ference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Obina, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few indred of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident, in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occusionally. It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

Extracts. The Boad Allve. A curious story is told by the Gallois of the disappearance from the Paris Morgio of a body which bad been brought there. The police having found a man lying insensible in the street, onlied in the nesistance of a doctor, who declared the man dead in consequence of congestion of the brain. The hody was conveyed to the Mergue, was undressed, and was placed uponone of the slabs, with the clothing suspended nbove. In the pookets were found a purse, and n letter with address. The keeper of the Morgue was astonished the next morning to find the hody had disappeared, together with the clothes, He proceeded to the address open the letter, and inquired for the person mentioned, and was successful and men in whom he recognized his missing charge." This man, a printer. comployed at the office of the Gaulois, explained that he was subject to cataleptic attacks, which sometimes lasted from eight to ten bours. On, the previous evening, he had been taken with one of these fits, and remained unconscious. until early in the morning, when he, recovering. Yound himself in the Morgua, with his clothes Hanging over him. He dressed himself, and, as the diors were only latelied, he took his louve, intending to return later and claim his purse, and to explain the enuseof bissudden disappear-

nnes from legal custody.

An Indian story Beluted in Puris. The Paris correspondent of the Englishman year name is a proverbial truth; and a proof of stomach and destroy the healthy, natural crait is a tule the newspapers are telling from ving for food. Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Flatu-India, but of which probably you have not lency and all Dorangements of the Digestive heard. It is to this effect: One of the principal and Exerctory Organs, are promptly relieved bankers in Paris bas just received orders to pay and oured by them. The public should always not less than the sum of £6,000 (six thousand bear in mind that Bristol's are the only Pills are the figures), the said sum being due for a made of simple breakfast, which breakfast was despatched from Paris to Labore, and there esten with the addition of certain dishes furnished by the lo ality. The despatch consisted of 1,100 boxes that are really of preserved ments, fruits, fish, veretables, &c., of 80 dozene of champagne, 800 bottles of Bordeaux, 800 of Burgundy, many bottles of liqueurs of all serts, and an incalculable quantity | to the presence of which invaluable resinois of brandy The breakfast was given and paid for the extraordinary success of Bristol's Pills may by a simple captain in the army. Sir Claude de in a great measure be ascribed. It is necessary Orespigny, who, however, is heir to one of the bowever, that the sick should always remember most audient and noble families of Great that in all diseases that have their origin in the Britain, and possesses a fabulous fortune. The blood, renkfast was given on the occasion of the horse races, and the captain, to be present at it. absented bimself from his regiment without that best of blood-purifiers, should be used with leave. On his return his colonel rebuked him, the Pille, the two Medicines being prepared but he answered with contempt; Discipline is good enough for men who are not noble and have no fortune, but not for a Do Crespigny!" All this is told gravely as matter of fact, and will be helieved by ninety-nine French readers in a hundred; they will see in it a fair canmple of the eccentricity of the English milords, "

A circumstance has occurred in India which requires the explanation of the learned. The Central ladin Times states that a strange following any general rule. phenomenon has lately presented itself in the Chanda district, at the village of Warrors. On the 23rd of February last, when an endeavour. was being made to empty a reservoir connected with a tank at that place by opening the drainage pipe, it was found that the water would not flow. To ascertain the cause of obstruction the reservoir was mamped dry, and it was discovered that a solid mass of ice, some three feet in length, had been formed, completely shoking the mouth of the pipe. When removed, it appeared opaque, somewhat similar to machine-made ice. The inspector of police. Mr. Lima, was present, and saw the block of ice cut out, and the deputy-commissioner. Major Lucie Smith, arrived some two or three hours afterwards, but in time to see some of the numelted fragments still remaining. The soil gone before it. Proved by this test, under which this phenomenon-second is the common black loam of the Decoan (cotton soil). the piping of ordinary potter's clay, cemented at the joints with a composition of linseed oil and cotton, pounded up together, and the protecting musonry of the indigenous candatone and mortar. The water in the reservoir and from that date until the present time, its promonths previously, the pipe having been closed showing an increase in the demand on the pre-during that period. It is sourcely necessary to coding one, until to duy it is acknowledged to may that the temperature at Warrora never at be the any time even approached freezing point.

It is purely vegetable in sculling. This holds true of the vibratius and entirely healthful, and no barm can ever wing of the insect, but, and bird, when the result from its free use. The public should bodies of these snimals are artificially fixed. therefore When, however, the creatures are liberated, flying at a high horizontal speed, the figure of S, as he points out, is curiously enough converted into a wate track, from the wing being carried forward by the body, and from and take no other. It is the cheapest, the its consequently never being permitted to strongest, and the best. complete more than a single curve of the 8. This is an entirely new view of the structure and functions of the wing, and one fraught with the deepest possible interest to the. aeropautical world. It promises to solve everybing Dr. Pettigrew's remarkable discovery. has received an unlooked for confirmation within the last few months at the hands of Professor Marey, of the College of France, Paris. This gentleman, whose skill in applying the graphic in thed to physiological inquiry is unequalled has succeeded in causing the insect and bird to register their own movements, and has established; by am not unl experimentam orusis, the absolute. correctness of Dr. Pettigrew's views. Professor Marey's mode of registering displays much ingenuity, and is briefly as follows: - "A cylinder revolving at a given speed is enveloped; by a sheet of thin paper, smeared with lamp black, The sweet Verbena is the mute representative and to this the tip of the rapidly vibrating wing of " consibility." While the fragrant Tuberus of the insect is applied in such a manner as to speaks of "dangerous pleasures," the Wild Rose tells only of "Simplicity." The Danuak paper, which it toadily does. A similar result is obtained in the bird by fixing a registering pparulus to the wing and causing the bird to fly in a chamber. In this case the registering if not more important then their beauty of apparatus is connected with the cyclinder by form and color ; we refer to the fragrance they means of delicate wires, and the registering is exhale. What can compare with the broath of effected by means of electricity. In both cases the blooming rose or the tonder fragrance of the figure of Sand wave movements, originally the virgin lily? Art tries and tries in vain to described and figured by Dr. Pettigrew, are faithfully reproduced. The way of a wing in the air has hitherto been regarded as a physio-logical puzzle of great magnitude; and well it might be, since some insects (the common fly fumes; and, with the single exception of for example) vibrate their wings at the almost inconceivable speed of 800 strokes per second that is, 18,000 times in a minute! It should be added that though Professor. We know of no preparation where the simple figure of 8 movement, and has recently ad. and natural fragrance of the flowers is preserved mitted his priority in that observation, he is yet by no means of the same opinion as Pettle grow as to the explanation of the mechanical
